

Job Description

Title: Build & Release Engineer

Location: Pune, India

Overview

appOrbit is an emerging start up enabling customers accelerate the digital transformation of their businesses. Our vision is to make it possible for enterprises to deploy and manage end to end life cycle of any application (legacy, cloud native, windows, linux) on any infrastructure (virtual machines, containers, bare-metal) across any cloud (public, private, hybrid). Our platform is already helping several dozen customers realize this vision.

appOrbit is looking for a build & release engineer who will develop and maintain the release pipeline that will be the backbone for delivering our cutting edge products. You will be architecting and building tools that will make the end-to-end release process seamless and efficient. You will have the opportunity to work on bleeding edge open source technologies, participating in the open source community and contributing to it. This is a high visibility and high impact role.

Responsibilities:

- Implement Continuous Integration and Continuous Delivery on complex software development products using Git, Jenkins, Maven, Docker, Chef on Cloud.
- Required to author technical design of functional specifications and progress the solution from design through the software development life-cycle to implementation
- Develop and execute plans and report status

Qualifications:

- Bachelor's degree or higher in Computer Science or related field
- 4-6 years' of experience in software development, build/CM preferred Experience in Bash/Shell/Python/Ruby scripting
- Excellent git experience (Multiple branch strategies)
- Expertise in supporting OSS & third party tools, including updating and patching
- Must have basic Linux system administration skills

Preferred Skills:

- Conceptual Creativity
- Autonomous and self-driven
- Work experience in agile software development teams.
- Excellent communicator.

Benefits:

- Fun, creative and fast-paced working environment
- Terrific medical and accident insurance plans
- Pantry stocked with snacks and beverages
- Flexible time-off with generous paid holidays